

Name: Professor Hassan Sid Ahmed Hassan

Qualifications:

1960	M.B.B.S.	University of Khartoum
1966	Diploma of Bacteriology	University of London
	Associate of the Royal College of Pathologists	UK

Positions:

1986	Head of Department of Microbiology, Parasitology and Immunology	University of Khartoum
1990	Professor of Bacteriology	University of Khartoum

Teaching and Training:

- Teaching of Microbiology to undergraduates in medicine, dentistry, Hygiene, nursing, and laboratory technology at various universities
- Teaching of Microbiology to postgraduates preparing for MD in clinical pathology and students preparing for further specialization
- Coordinator of microbiology teaching and examiner in Sudan National Medical Specialization Board
- Examiner (internal and external) for undergraduate medical and dental schools
- Examiner for MD and PhD, for part I fellowship in Obstetrics and Surgery, University of Khartoum and Sudan National Medical Specialization Board
- Assessor for candidate promotion to professor, associate professor in Sana'a, Jordan and Sudan
- Supervisor to MD and PhD thesis in the faculty of medicine and pharmacy

Established:

- Participated in organization and establishment of the regional and teaching laboratories in Sudan
- Established the postgraduate course for training in the master's degree in clinical pathology (1983)
- Participated in setting the curriculum of the following medical schools: Bahr El Ghazal, Juba, Shendi, and Ahfad.

Research Area:

- Microbial Ecology of Food
- Cerebrospinal Meningitis/Bacterial Meningitis/Meningococcal Meningitis
- Salmonella
- Shigella

Link: List of Publications
